

ABSTRACT

A sealing ring wherein both the first and the second sealing lip are well protected from mechanical damage/destruction. The relatively more sensitive first sealing lip is particularly well protected and, in particular, is protected from exposure to service life-reducing contaminants. Furthermore, the production of the sealing lip is simple and economical.